Says Lodge Principles Sorely Needed Today

Premier of Ontario L. M. Frost, in declaring Lindsay's new IOOF temple officially open here Saturday night, stated that the beautiful building was a culmination of the efforts of the some 1,000 people who have been members in the 82 years of its history. "This lodge will contribute its worth to the community," he said, continuing that the principles of friendship, love and truth were " sorely needed in the complex and perplexing world of today".

In introducing the Premier, the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Ontario praised everyone who did his share in making the new temple possible... which he declared "one of the finest in Ontario." He said that "Oddfellowship is not a fraternal organization only, it is a social organization. It will be termed itself a 'new Canadian'," stated that the greatest thing in his life was his Canadian citizenship.

Premier Frost said that it was a pleasure to be introduced by Mr. Williamson, "one of the new Canadian, who has risen to a high place in the Province."

The Premier said that the Canadians are adding much to Canadian life with their various skills and cultures. He congratulated all who had assisted with the erection of the Temple, which is the home of Lindsay Lodge No. 100 Independent Order of Oddfellows.

The Premier brought a note of humor to his address by his recollections of the years when the Oddfellows of his age had above his legal office a pulpit that the members of the A.M.O. S. called "We Never Sleep" and that he and his brother, the late Cec. Frost, could agree since they had been "burning the midnight oil" in their law offices while the lodge men marched overhead.

The dedication ceremonies were impressive. They consisted of the actual building of an altar embodying the principles on which Oddfellowship is founded. A dedication

There was a good attendance of members and several visitors present. Mrs. Vanatter then read the opening address by the Rev. Dr. J. H. "The Open According to You" Scripture passages were read by Mrs. W. F. J. Miss L. Murchison, Mrs. B. E. and Miss V. McIntosh. The benediction was given by Mr. R. East.

Pearson Says Canada Should Support Pact In Principle

Early Shoppers Undaunted by Rain Threat

Despite the threatening rain, early shoppers were undaunted. They were seen in the aisles of the store, some with umbrellas, others with raincoats. The store manager, Mr. Smith, said that the store was well-prepared for the rain. He said that the store had a large stock of umbrellas and raincoats, and that the store was open for business as usual.

Pearson pointed out that the world where commitments in the market may be advisable.

nationalism comes from the U.S. A. T-O and the United States. The military capabilities of the U.S. A. T-O are not as great as the U.S. A. T-O. The minister spoke at the end of the debate on his department. The minister was his first report to parliament since returning to Canada last week. —BUP

*As Much As 15% of The Power
Your Engine Could Develop Is Being Held Captive*

TCP, blended into Shell Premium Gasoline, releases this power—by neutralizing lead and carbon deposits

These deposits build up in combustion chambers and glow red-hot when you step on the accelerator to pass a car or make a hill. These "hot spots" set off the fuel charge before the piston is ready pro-act on power works against you instead of for you.

Let's take the case of deposits that accumulate on the fly. As they plug and prevent the spark from jumping, they can cause the engine to divert electricity from the spark plug to keep the plug from firing. This is called misfiring. It results in wasted fuel and power.

The greatest Gasoline Additive on the market today is Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP.

That's the way power is held captive in your car, but now this power can be put to work for you by Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP.

A tune-up without tools? In a nutshell, TCP adds a little extra spark to the plug, knocking superfluous benefits into the system. It's the power of the spark that makes your car's engine hard to keep from misfiring for the time the engine actually is consumed.

Because today's gasoline is so clean, it's not the only way to keep these deposits from forming. But Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP can give your engine the extra performance from your engine's own Shell Premium with TCP. That's the only Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP available. The only place it's available.

A WAIT AND SEE ATTITUDE

Earlier in the year there was considerable stir in the northern part of Victoria and Peterborough Counties and the lower portion of Haliburton County when the weather was unusually hot in effect that uranium was being found in considerable quantity. Fervid staking was carried out and enthusiasm was high. The interval has passed and now there is a "cooling off" period and interest has subsided to a noticeable degree.

A couple of weeks ago while travelling through the north the region of greatest recent activity, "The Post" learned from local residents that prospecting and exploration work was still in progress but that they preferred a "wait and see" attitude on the uranium strike. Naturally they are hopeful that the rocks, which have proven more useful than usual over the years since the area was staked, will be found in the uranium commercial quantities but they have to become overly-enthusiastic until they have "proof of the pudding."

The address delivered at a hydro accountants' conference here on atomic energy and its anticipated role in the generation of electric power, makes it clear that should workable quantities of uranium be found in the highlands it could develop into a mining enterprise of some note. The mere fact that uranium in unknown quantity is present in the highlands is encouraging in the light of the fact that atomic discoveries in the realm of minerals, particularly minerals associated with or used in conjunction with atomic energy.

THE SEASON OF ELECTRICAL STORMS

With the advent of the season of electrical storms in this part of the world, there is a great deal of people who are concerned with the safety of their person and their property when one of these violent outbursts of thunder and lightning strikes. It is a well-known fact that many people have been killed and injured by lightning strikes. In cities and larger towns the violence of electrical storms is lost to a certain extent in the noise of the surrounding city and the lights of the city. In the country, however, the violence of electrical storms is lost to a certain extent in the noise of the surrounding city and the lights of the city. In the country, however, the violence of electrical storms is lost to a certain extent in the noise of the surrounding city and the lights of the city.

There have been numerous recommendations designed to protect for maximum safety during a storm and some of them repeated at this time may serve a useful purpose.

It is considered wise to avoid isolated trees during an electrical storm. . . . people and animals are often killed by lightning when a tree under which they sought shelter is struck.

It is not wise to remain in an upright position if caught crossing an expanse of flat, open land during a storm of this nature. The experts say it is better to lie flat on the ground. . . . From morning to evening he was right in the midst of it. He couldn't escape breathing in a lot of it, to say nothing of that which came to rest on his face and hands and clothing.

Children being the highest objects on houses without it makes it wise to stay away from stoves or other heating equipment connected with the chimney.

Bathrooms are things to stay out of during these storms. It is not wise to take a bath or shower when water makes the danger of flash shock or electric shock or lightning striking the home.

Travelling by car is considered one of the safest forms of transportation during a storm. It is not wise to stop. . . . Trains have an equally good record but aircraft do not seem to fare so well.

There are numerous other points relative to safety in electrical storms but the principal thing to remember would seem to be "use a maximum of common sense." Most of us are endowed with liberal quantities of this important asset and unfortunately many of us fail to use it. Those who are really frightened of lightning storms may derive some comfort by reviewing their knowledge of the history of lightning. . . . It is safe to say the number is relatively small in comparison to the number of times we have been exposed to the fury of the elements.

WHY NOT COLOURED BOTTLES THEN?

We were reading somewhere not long ago about the effect of light on milk. The article stated that light in itself was hardly so much of a danger to milk as it was seriously depleted its vitamin content, and food value. When we attended the Dairy Day Show in Lindsay this week we were hopeful of seeing some advance designs in milk bottles which would render their contents more susceptible to the damaging effects of light. It is fairly certain that that overlooked such a display but a fairly careful search of the various exhibits failed to turn up anything of this nature.

Without having any knowledge as to the cost of coloured bottles or other suitable types of milk containers would it not be a good idea to have a number of white milk in milk, it seems that if the findings in this connection are correct, every effort should be made by the dairy industry to preserve the quality of their product. Who is there who would care to make a study on this subject which might further enlighten those countless souls who derive much of their daily energy the telephone directory leads one to believe that the using of local police and fire department numbers could be more conspicuously arranged. What would be wrong, for example, with having the local numbers appear on the cover of the directory in bold type? Another suggestion might be for a progressive advertisement to mail out stickers for this purpose with his own advertising material being toned down to make the emergency numbers prominent. These numbers are usually needed in a hurry and ought to be conspicuously displayed near the phone of every house.

A 'FIERY' ARTIST

Belize, the capital of British Honduras, is short one artist. The local press, but it is unlikely that he will be missed. A local painter was sentenced to fifteen years imprisonment for painting a million-dollar house. He did it, he painted a million-dollar house. He did it, he painted a million-dollar house. He did it, he painted a million-dollar house.

This is curiously reminiscent of the case of the emperor Nero, whose talents in poetry and music rather than painting. According to tradition, he set fire to the city of Rome in order to provide a proper background while he was reciting his new epic on the burning of Troy. Like Nero, the artist in Honduras, the Roman emperors and people took a very dim view of these proceedings; they liked neither the conflagration nor the poet. Eventually Nero was forced to fall upon his own sword, thus ending his reign as an unappreciative work "What artist dies."

Whether it breaks out in Rome or in Belize, artistic temperaments automatically increase the fire insurance premiums—Edmundson Journal.

EPILOGUE

I believe that the great challenge of all our care is to fight the spirit and power of materials in themselves. In these nations, in all nations and in all times, and I remind you there is only one real answer to the spirit of materialism, and that is to show to our own life what life is really meant to be: living in all things the life of God. . . . From morning to evening he was right in the midst of it. He couldn't escape breathing in a lot of it, to say nothing of that which came to rest on his face and hands and clothing.

RURAL AIR POLLUTION

Air pollution is regarded as the bane of industrial cities, as smoke or other waste materials permeates the atmosphere. Rural areas are envied their fresh, clean air.

Yet at this season of the year there is a lot of rural air pollution. The fields cannot be tilled until dry as the farmers do their spring work they stir up clouds of dust.

It isn't so disagreeable as it once was. With tractor or drawn equipment the farmer sits ahead of the harrow, seeder or cultivator. Unless there is a strong wind from the rear, he doesn't get a cloud of dust.

In the days of the horse-drawn equipment the farmer had to walk behind, or ride on, the equipment which was raising the dust. From morning to evening he was right in the midst of it. He couldn't escape breathing in a lot of it, to say nothing of that which came to rest on his face and hands and clothing.

Walking behind a harrow or about the dirtiest job on the farm. The best that could be said for it was that it was good clean dust, not smoke and other grime from factory chimneys. —Winifred Star.

FACTORY COMMUNISM

At the time of the October Revolution in Russia in 1917 there were not more than 80,000 Communist Party members in the world. Today, thirty-seven years later, Communist control covers a storm of the world. If this rate of advance were to be maintained, the Soviets would subjugate the entire world before the end of the twentieth century. Since World War II the Communists have taken over Germany, a zone of Austria, Albania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland, Rumania, China, a part of Mongolia, and North Korea. . . . It is safe to say the number is relatively small in comparison to the number of times we have been exposed to the fury of the elements.

Laugh It Off...

Indignant woman to laughing-looking librarian: "Punny you haven't that book. My husband said he had everything."

She: "I guess I'm just a babe in the woods." He: "Honey, meet an old forest ranger."

Local lady: "Doctor, is there something wrong with me?" Doctor: "Yes, but it's trifling."

Local lady: "Oh, I don't think that's so very wrong to it."

A long sleek-necked car drew up to the curb where a slender woman stood waiting for a bus to take her to her job.

"Hello, beautiful," called the young man. "I'm driving you."

"How wonderful," replied the girl, "bring me back an orange."

Car Owner: "How did this long blonde hair get on the back seat of my limousine."

Chauffeur: "It'll give you an explanation, sir."

Chauffeur: "Explanation nothing? What I want is an introduction."

Wife: "How did all those empty bottles get in the basement?" Husband: "I haven't the slightest idea. I never bought an empty bottle in my life."
